

Ron Hall

I am inspired to create art that captures people in an intimate moment or setting. Whether it is a musician, a ballerina, or a person sipping tea in the early hours of the morning - I love to create a sense of rhythm and flow. I utilize vibrant, arbitrary, free flowing coloration that grabs my viewer's attention and subtle rhythms of shape and movements to draw them in further.

These paintings are created with very thin acrylic paint using abstracted figurative shapes, that hopefully creates a sense of interest and reflects the special uniqueness of the individuals that inspire my work.

Ron Hall is an award winning multi-media visual artist who grew up in the Sacramento area. Originally an art major, Ron changed his degree and entered the fire service in 1987. While in the fire service, Ron created art for numerous fire safety and educational publications. After he retired, he returned to college in the Spring of 2015 and earned degrees in Art History and Arts & Humanities in 2018.

In 2011, he started exhibiting his work in juried and non-juried art shows in Northern and Southern California. He taught art and art history to a local homeschool co-op from 2009-2015.

He is currently the Vice-President for Rancho Cordova Arts, where he has been a curator, exhibit judge, and art instructor for classroom workshops and online tutorials. He was the Visual Arts Organizer for the Brushes and Brews Art Show in Rancho Cordova from 2015-2017.

Amy Green

I love the intersection between nature, fantasy, science, and spirit. My creations are inspired by my experiences in nature and by my biggest influence, my father, who was a PhD in marine biology and taught college for 33 years. I grew up visiting his biology department and specifically his bio-lab where he housed a wide variety of animals, often donated/surrendered.

Other sources of influence include topographical maps, botany, Buddhism and Eastern philosophy, the Dadaist movement, and music lyrics.

I tend to work from a word or phrase to start a painting. I love to create odd or challenging surrealist work when I'm not making meditative abstract art. Having both satisfies my intellect as well as my spirit.

Amy Green is a Northern California artist. She creates watercolor paintings, intaglio etchings, and ink drawings.

She received an MFA from California College of the Arts in Film/Video and Performance Art, and a BFA in Sculpture from California State University Chico.

Amy currently lives in Fair Oaks, CA with her two sons.
